

Levi's magic in the mind donates over £1,000 to Bosom Buddies

Mind to Mind

Levi Attias donates £1,100 to Bosom Buddies during his show 'Mind to Mind'. Mr Attias presented the cheque to Sonia Golt.

by Cristina Cavilla

Revealing a chosen card or pulling a rabbit out of a hat is one thing, but getting inside someone's mind and reading their thoughts now that really freaks people out. Leaving his crowd head scratching and asking themselves 'How did he do that?' at a recent and rare show at the Elliot O'Callaghan hotel was mentalist extraordinaire Levi Attias. He dazzled the crowd with such mental feats as guessing and replicating what audience members had secretly drawn and which guests were lying when they told Levi that they held his black marbles.

Levi Attias on the night in 'Mind to Mind'

BOSOM BUDDIES

Cancer Trust

"Early detection, equals survival"

Charity 215

He had the crowd baffled when he was able to tell one beautifully dressed lady why she decided to wear her floral print blouse and black trousers that evening to her astonished agreement. Levi's apparent abilities of mind reading, intuition and foretelling the future are achieved through a variety of psychological means such as suggestion, cold reading, misdirection and showmanship. Probably.

'He dazzled the crowd with such mental feats as guessing and replicating what audience members had secretly drawn and which guests were lying when they told Levi that they held his black marbles.'

My suggestion; Jedi mind-tricks or perhaps he was just one of the lucky ones who did receive a letter from Hogwarts aged 11. In any case, Levi pulled off a brilliant multi-dimensional show with ease leaving the crowd wanting more from their charismatic host. The show was in aid of the charity Bosom Buddies.